

GREAT MAN HAS GONE.

He Lived and Died In the Service of Massachusetts

And For All His Fellowmen.

Nation Sustains Great Loss In Death of Senator George Frisbie Hoar. Whole of Bay State In Mourning for Him. End Came Peacefully.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 30.—The tolling of the bells of the church towers and fire stations of Worcester communicated to his fellow citizens the intelligence of the passing of United States Senator George Frisbie Hoar, whose death occurred at 1:35 a. m. today. At 2:55 o'clock the chiming of Plymouth church played "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Five minutes later a flag on a manufacturing plant, the first one to be half-masted, was raised. The tidings communicated by the tolling bells were heard throughout the city, and within a few minutes numerous inquiries were made at the newspaper offices by telephone. The people of Worcester, to whom Senator Hoar was endeared greatly, eagerly followed the course of his sickness, and hundreds of calls on the telephone had been made daily at the local newspaper offices by persons who desired to hear the latest news from the bedside.

The state of profound stupor which was indicative of the approach of death, embraced the senator for forty hours.

Yesterday he became as weak as he could be and live, with the pulse and respiration so faint that they could be detected only by the physician. Dr. Warren R. Gilman, the medical attendant, said that so slight a thing as pulling the clothing on the bed would have been sufficient to take away enough strength to cause death. The patient had expressed the wish, early in his illness, that he might die peacefully and without a struggle. Such a death came to him.

Besides Dr. Gilman, the senator's two children, Rockwood Hoar and Miss Mary Hoar, were at the bedside until the end.

Mr. Dougherty, the messenger of the committee on judiciary, of which Mr. Hoar was chairman, came to Worcester yesterday to be with the senator in his last hours. Early in the week, Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, an intimate friend came from Boston, but was not admitted to the sick chamber, nor was Senator Henry Cabot Lodge admitted when he called on Wednesday. The physician was afraid lest the least commotion would have a fatal effect.

During the last few days, pictures of Senator Hoar have been prominently displayed in shop windows throughout the city, and today many of these photographs were draped.

Senator Hoar was inseparably identified with interests of Worcester. He was the principal in establishing a free public library and literary reading room. He was foremost in planning the Worcester Polytechnic Institute on a solid foundation, and for many years was one of its trustees. He was a firm friend of Clark University, being first its vice president, and at the death of Jonas Clark, its head. Mr. Hoar became president of the board of trustees, a position he held until his death. For many years he was trustee of Leicester Academy. The Worcester Art Society and the Worcester Club were founded by his efforts. He was an honorary life member of the Worcester Mechanics Association and member of the republican club of Massachusetts. He was the oldest member, saving two, of the American Society of Antiquity. He also held membership in the New England Genealogical Society, was a former president of the American Historical Society and was active in the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Senator Hoar was a trustee of the Peabody trust fund for the promotion of education. He was a regent of the Smithsonian institution at Washington and was prominent in the Unitarian church. During the day hundreds of messages of condolence were received at the family residence on Oak avenue. It is understood that the funeral will be held Monday from the church of the Unity, and that Rev. Edward Everett, chaplain of the U. S. A., will be asked to officiate.

Tributes to Senator Hoar were ut tered by prominent men of this city and vicinity. Among them was the following from United States Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, president of Clark College, who said:

"Senator Hoar was a man in all his characteristics which cannot be compared with another officer. He had no enemies, because of his fairness to opponents. His career was marked by industry and unswerving integrity, which is a lesson to all men."

The Rev. Joseph F. Hanselman, president of the college of the Holy Cross (Roman Catholic) said: "Senator Hoar was the grand old man of America. No two public men ever resembled each other so closely as did he and Gladstone. His death is a national loss. His nobility of character appears most strikingly in the simplicity of his greatness."

BOSTON

Receives News of Senator Hoar's Death With Great Sorrow.

Boston, Sept. 30.—News of the death of Senator George F. Hoar was received with great regret by all classes of citizens. In politics he had no enemies in this state, and democrats were not behind the members of his own party in paying tribute to his worth.

Soon after daylight the flags on the state house were half-masted, and later, tokens of mourning were displayed in the city hall and other buildings throughout the city. Governor John L. Bates issued a proclamation announcing the death of the senator and saying: "A great man has gone from us. He lived and died in the service of Massachusetts. Five times he was commissioned by this commonwealth to represent her in the highest council chamber in the nation, and under these commissions he served longer than any other man who has represented this state. The character of that service may be measured by the highest standards, and it will not be found wanting. It made him a national figure for a generation. By great abilities and unswerving rectitude he won the respect of the nation and established himself in the hearts of his fellow men. They gladly honored him because they believed in him. He was a scholar of deep learning, an orator of impassioned power, but above all a sincere man, wholly devoted to conscience, hewing close to the line, scorning the arts of the demagogue, not anxious to please men, but to serve them; not seeking to be popular, but determined to be right. Intensely conscious of the loss our state has suffered, we find even in the hour of extreme sorrow a great cause for gratification in that the record of his noble life will ever remain to us as a precious legacy."

The governor directed that the state departments be closed on the day of the funeral, requested that flags throughout the commonwealth be placed at half-mast and that the people by such other appropriate methods as may suggest themselves, express their respect for the senator's memory.

Senatorial Committee.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—The president pro-tempore of the senate has designated the following senators as the committee on the funeral of Senator Hoar, who died early this morning at his home in Worcester, Mass.: Lodge, Platt, (Conn.), Hale, Dewey, McComas, Spooner, Foraker, Beveridge, Elkins, Dryden, Stewart, Cockrell, Bacon, Blackburn, Gorman and Morgan.

The funeral will be held at the church of the Unity, Elm street, Worcester, on Monday, at 2:30 p. m.

Deserved Tribute.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—United States Senator Orville H. Platt, who has been one of Senator Hoar's intimate associates in the senate, today offered this tribute: "The news of Senator Hoar's death will be received throughout the whole country with a sense of personal sorrow and loss. It will be very keenly felt by his associates in the senate. Few men have impressed themselves more fully upon the history of our country than he. For more than a third of a century he has shared conspicuously in the solution of all the difficult questions which have arisen, and by his great learning, ability and patriotic devotion, largely influenced their settlement. His life was pure, noble, forceful and grand."

POLITICIANS DISAPPOINTED.

No Decision Rendered in LaFollette Case. May Go Over Until October 18.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—The supreme court this morning was again the source of keen disappointment to the politicians of the state in that they did not hand down the decision in the LaFollette case. It was realized after the failure of the court to hand down the decision today that everything depended upon the date to which an adjournment should be taken at the conclusion of today's work. There was belief in some quarters that the court would take the unusual course of holding a session on Saturday, and that it would render a decision then. It was pointed out that if adjournment was not taken to Saturday, the decision would be postponed to October 18th, or later.

HANGED FOR WIFE MURDER.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Frank Lewandowski, convicted of wife murder, was hanged in the jail yard here today. Lewandowski, in a drunken rage, cut his wife's throat and then his own, because she would not compel her son, his step-son to work. The slayer hovered between life and death for weeks. Too poor to hire a lawyer, he had one appointed by the court. Governor Yates twice reprieved him.

HARRY WILLIAMS DEAD.

Pittsburg, Sept. 30.—H. W. Walker, better known as Harry W. Williams, for many years owner of Academy of Music, and until last year also owner and manager of the Duquesne theatre, in this city, died at his home in Allegheny today, after a long illness. ### MADE ESCAPE GOOD.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The police officials have found no trace whatever of A. J. Whiteman, who jumped from the last mail on the Lake Shore road near Dunkirk last night, escaping from two officers who were bringing him from St. Louis to answer an indictment in connection with an alleged bank swindle.

Uncle Sam—I think I'll take a transfer. This volcano is liable to break loose any time.

FIRE CHIEF CROKER SAVED HIS FIREMEN

And Came Near Meeting Death Himself. Quarter of Million Loss by Fire in New York Packing House District.

New York, Sept. 30.—Nearly a quarter of a million dollars loss was caused by a big fire in the big block of meat packing houses and refrigerator plants in Tenth avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets which started late last evening and burned steadily through the night before it was brought under control. The heaviest loss was in the three-story building occupied by the Cudahy Packing Co. and the Wheeler Company and Conroy Brothers, dealers in poultry. The fire also damaged or practically destroyed two four-story buildings occupied by the T. A. Wheeler & Co. and the G. H. Hammond Co. The loss of the Cudahy Company is estimated at $125,000, and that to the others between $75,000 and $100,000.

WHOLE COUNTRY IS THROWN INTO FERVOR.

Tangier, Morocco, Sept. 30.—The governor of Arzila, who was the father-in-law of the former war minister, El Menebhi, has been murdered at Arzila, by people of the surrounding tribes. The murder was committed out of revenge for the action of the governor in imprisoning members of the tribes. The murderers released the prisoners at Arzila and killed many of the towns people.

TRINIDAD IS ISOLATED.

Heavy Floods Cut Off All Telegraphic and Railroad Communication With the City.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 30.—Extensive damage is reported to have been done at Trinidad, Colo., last night, by a flood in the Inman river. All wires in the vicinity are down and communication with the city is entirely cut off. All bridges in and about the city are said to have been washed away, and no trains can get in or out on the Santa Fe, Denver & Rio Grande and Colorado Southern railways.

The latest report received before all the wires were lost, said the Santa Fe depot had been washed away, and the Harvey Hotel was threatened with destruction. So far as known there have been no lives lost.

Trinidad is the county seat of Las Animas county, and the center of an extensive coal mining region. Its population numbers about 5,000.

Later. It is reported this afternoon that four persons were killed, and that 18 are missing.

RUSSIAN ARMY IS

Still at Mukden and It Looks Like Early Battle.

Kuropatkin's Outposts Have

Been Driven in After Sharp Fighting and Japanese are About Prepared for an Aggressive Movement. Official Report of Operations at Port Artur.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30, 1 p. m.—The war department has been momentarily thrown in the shadow by the severe acclaim with which the Russian press greets the appointment of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky to the office of minister of the interior, as marking the inauguration of a liberal regime. All the papers print the minister's speech at the reception yesterday of the officials of the ministry, and by the side of it, by special authorization of the minister of the interior, the interview of the Associated Press with the minister at Vilnagpu.

Many of the papers also print the emperor's manifesto of 1903. The editorials all breathe a tone of relief at the passage of Von Plehve regime, and intense satisfaction at the dawn of brighter days.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30, 4:05 p. m.—From a reliable source the Associated Press hears that sharp fighting has occurred near Mukden, resulting in the Japanese driving in General Kuropatkin's outposts. Important despatches have been received and transmitted to the emperor.

They are believed to confirm the Associated Press information. The general staff, however, is unable at present to go beyond the positive assurance that the main Russian army is still at Mukden.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—In view of the fact that advices have been received from the Russian consulate at Chefoo, saying the Japanese assaults on Port Arthur September 20 to 26th, the authorities at the war office discredit the Chefoo report that the Japanese have captured the main forts at Port Arthur. The information of the war office proves that the Japanese losses during the siege have been 45,000 killed or wounded.

Mukden, Sept. 30.—The delay in the resumption of the aggressive by Field Marshal Oyama, according to the best information, is due to the necessity of making good the losses which he sustained at Liao Yang and to the bringing up of stores and munitions. But the preparations for an active forward movement of the Japanese now seem to have been complete and a serious collision is regarded as imminent. General Kuropatkin today reviewed several detachments of troops and conferred the St. George's Cross on sixteen officers who distinguished themselves at the battle of Liao Yang.

Battle Possible.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—The war expert of the Novoye Vremya says he believes that a battle at Mukden is possible.

He recalls that two months elapsed between Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

The Novoye Vremya continues to urge that General Kuropatkin be appointed commander-in-chief, intimating again that he has been embarrassed heretofore by Viceroy Alexieff.

Japanese Repulsed.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—The general staff has received news that in the general assault on Port Arthur from September 20th to 26th, the Japanese were everywhere repulsed.

VALUABLES WORTH VAST SUM STOLEN.

Paris, Sept. 30.—A special train from Paris to Havre was riddled of valuables worth a vast sum last night. Ninety-one bags containing United States mail and a large quantity of valuable papers and articles were cut open and the valuables taken. The exact loss is not yet known, but it is estimated that the thieves obtained booty worth a fortune.

GOVERNOR HERRICK HOT UNDER COLLAR.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 30.—Referring to the silver service set for the battle to Ohio today, Governor Herrick said: "All this fuss and feathers from Lima," said Herrick, "is made out of nothing. I never suggested the G. A. R. plan or even hinted at it. It was a voluntary act on the part of the veterans. Colonel Ed. S. Grant came to me and requested the privilege of raising money for the silver service. It was his own request, absolutely. I told him that everybody would be delighted if they would go ahead and do so. I would not raise the slightest objection and would be glad to have him do it. That is the last I heard of it until I saw the report that I was being blamed for the failure of the G. A. R. collection."

"What will be the next step toward raising the money?" the governor was asked.

"I do not know."

"Will the project be abandoned?"

"No, indeed, I will not give it up. The people of Ohio will have to do it somehow. It would be a disgrace to the state to give it up."

THE STAGE.

Perhaps the most notable thing in "Superbia" at the Fauror opera house is the two transformations "The Battle of the Seasons" and "The Home of the Storms." In each of these nearly forty gauze and net drops are used together with "folded" set pieces. They are both delicate and costly and are handled like fine and fragile lace. The handouts are the only proprietors of spectacular shows who make use of these scenes.

The attraction at the Fauror opera house tomorrow afternoon, and evening will be a novel in the shape of a romantic Irish drama entitled "The Game Keeper" in which the title role is taken by Mr. Thomas J. Smith, who will be remembered as the star in those pretty plays, "The Ivy Leaf" and "The Fairies' Well." The Game Keeper tells a story of Irish life in which Mr. Smith figures as the hero. He is a jolly, delightful chap, full of mother wit, with a heart as big as that of the proverbial ox, and as honest as the day is long, without a hair, without favor, ready at all times to assist his friends and protect the low-trodden. A charming love story is woven through the play in which Mr. Smith's singing forms a delightful feature, while the scenery carried by the company form the most beautiful stage pictures ever presented.

The Policy Players' will appear at the Fauror opera house next Monday night. They are highly recommended as the Providence Evening Telegram, of April 10th, 1904, says: "A company of colored artists numbering about thirty people, began a weeks' engagement at the Park Theatre yesterday afternoon and very cleverly presented the Policy Players in the 'Bogus Prince' a two-act musical potpourri by Sidney Perrin. Large attendances were in evidence at both performances, which heartily greeted the attraction and showed manifest appreciation of the offering. The company and its entertainment last evening delighted all present, and through the long and varied program the audience was kept continually laughing and applauding the very entertaining features. The piece abounds in good comedy and excellent musical numbers. The leading comedy role is played by Sidney Perrin, who, through his clever work and ludicrous by-play, found enthusiastic recognition from the audience. He is assisted by Walter Crombie, who enlarges the opportunities of his part in a most praiseworthy manner."

Cause of Insomnia.
Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomnia. Many cases have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by all druggists.

Asking For a Girl

(Original.)
During the summer Bertram Hall met Claribel Schofield in the mountains and they became engaged. When Bertram's vacation was finished he left his fiancée and went to the city, where he was to find her father and ask his consent to their marriage. Mr. Schofield lived at Glenwood, a suburban village, alone while his family were in the country, and Bertram preferred to go there to see him rather than at his office in the city. He concluded to go out after business hours and return for dinner. A train left the station at 5 o'clock by which he could reach Glenwood at 5:30, get the order off his mind and return in time to dine at his club with friends at 7.
The route was entirely new to him, and he asked a gentleman on the train sitting next to him if he would kindly notify him when the train reached Glenwood.
"I get out there, or, rather, at East Glenwood," said the man. "Your station is the next beyond."
"Can you direct me to the residence of Harris B. Schofield?" asked Bertram.
"Certainly I know him very well." And he gave the desired information. Since the gentleman knew Mr. Schofield, Bertram concluded to find out what sort of a man he was.
"I've never met the gentleman," said Bertram, "but I hear he is a very pleasant man."
"He is," drawled the gentleman, "pleasant enough if you don't antagonize him."
"Straight laced or a man of the world?"
"Well, if I wanted to ingratiate myself with him I wouldn't mention wines, liquors, cigars and such things."
"In that case I'm in luck," remarked Bertram. "I thought I'd go out in the smoking car, but concluded I would not."
"Right you are. Old Schofield would want you to hang yourself up to air before going into his presence after smoking."
"Had I made an engagement to dine at my club with some chums?"
The trainman threw open the door and cried, "East Glenwood!" and the gentleman arose.
"Good evening," he said. "I wish you luck in getting away from Schofield to dine with pleasant company."
Half an hour later Bertram reached the house he sought and sent up his card. The butler was gone a long while and when he returned bore on a tray an amber lined find in a wineglass.
"Mr. Schofield's compliments. He's dressing for dinner and says you might like a cocktail while you're waiting."
It occurred to Bertram that either he had got into the wrong house or his prospective father-in-law was trying to test him.
"Thanks," he said. "I never drink."
The butler set the glass down with out further remark. Bertram let it stand untouched. Mr. Schofield was very long in dressing, and Bertram became impatient. He looked at his watch every five minutes and at last saw that he had but ten minutes for the evening and ten more to catch a train to get him back to the city in time for dinner. Tapping an electric bell, he summoned the butler and asked him to say that his time was limited. The butler after a protracted absence returned with another cocktail and an apology from the host for keeping him waiting.
Bertram was now sure that he had got into the wrong house. But inquires made of the butler only went to prove that he had not. Then he was sure he was being put to a test. He was getting angry.
"Please tell Mr. Schofield," he said sharply, "that I have an engagement to dine with my minister in the city at 7 and beg that he will give me five minutes at once."
A reply to this was shouted over the baluster. "Tell him the minister can wait. Put a bottle of champagne on ice."

"Butler," said Bertram, perplexed, "will you kindly inform Mr. Schofield—Mr. Harris B. Schofield—that I have come to see him on a matter of importance to myself and a member of his family. Let him assure me that I'm not in the wrong house and I will try to wait patiently."
Again the answer came over the baluster this time mingled with other noises.
"Martin, have you been doing with my shaving brush, and where are the towels?" then an interval, followed by "Oh, tell him to be gone if he's in such a hurry."
Bertram threw himself on a sofa and in due time the odor of a cigarette preceded footsteps on the stairs, and a gentleman entered. Bertram was dumfounded. He was the man he had met on the train. He wore a very cheerful smile and, marching up to Bertram, gave him a cordial shake.
"Pardon my rise," he said. "The temptation was beyond resistance. I knew you must be Bertram Hall, and I got out purposely at the lower station, reaching the house just before you. And now I trust you will yield this once on this important occasion and drink one of these beverages while I drink the other."
Bertram tossed off the beverage with a blessed relief.
"I respect the cloth," continued Mr. Schofield, "but for today your minister must excuse you."
Bertram flushed and said that the men at his club certainly wouldn't excuse him. But he was shown to a telephone, whereby he informed his friends that he would not show up for dinner.
That night he wrote his fiancée that he had met her father and the formalities had been gone through with satisfactorily.

Little Willie told his mother that a lion was on the front porch, but when an investigation was made it was found to be the Newfoundland dog, which had been newly sheared.
"Now, Willie," said his mother, "you have told a very naughty story, and you must go to your room and pray for forgiveness, and remain there until the Lord does forgive you."
Willie promptly obeyed, and he was gone only a few minutes before he came tripping back.
"Did the Lord forgive you?" asked the mother.
"Yes," was the reply, and he said he didn't blame me much, either, cause when he first saw it he sorter thought it was a lion himself."—Columbia Magazine.

Barbara Fritchie Revised.

Some of the incident of the recent war game in the south will never get into the official report of the proceedings. For instance, there were those two hungry soldiers of the New York regiment who went foraging and struck a farm house. From the farm hung a confederate flag, and the owner of the farm like a confederate, Barbara Fritchie, stuck her head out of the window.
"She asks us if we were Yankees," said one of the men, "and we said we were."

"All right boys," says she. "If you'll take off your hats to that good old flag, I'll give you anything to eat I have in the house."
"Did you do it?" he was asked.

WHAT TO WEAR

Is the one question of all absorbing interest in the minds of most women these early autumn days—and how satisfactorily this store answers it.

Whatever is right in the exacting light of fashion is here, whatever is true to the styles most in vogue, and greatest in favor with ultra fashionable world is here in great variety—affording a range of price and choice broad enough to meet the desire of every purse and taste.

A Store's Usefulness

Is judged—and rightly so—by the strength of its stocks, the quality its merchandise and the correctness and variety of its styles. Then comes the question of price—which must be the lowest possible.

A visit to this store will abundantly prove that the various stocks are most complete, larger and better than at any previous period of our existence.

Nor does this end the attractive feature—there is a decided price advantage, for our plan is not to mark an article as high as it could possibly be sold for, but as low as we can possibly afford to sell it.

These are the conditions under which we bid for your business and every woman in Lima and vicinity is most cordially invited to be here this Friday and Saturday.

STUDY

Of Christ and the Bible

By the Classes

To Be Organized at the Y. M. C. A.

Competent Teachers Will Give Their Time to This Department.

And the Men and Boys of Lima Are Invited to Enroll Their Names in One of the Several Classes.

The organization of the Bible Institute classes will be observed Sunday afternoon, October 2nd in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, which many have been looking forward to. The committee has worked hard to provide the best courses and most efficient teachers and have secured men of experience, some of whom have taught in the association; but the best of courses and teachers do not constitute all there is in the Bible study institute. Men who were in the classes last year are earnestly reminded that most of the work of this year depends upon their co-operation in securing a large enrollment. This can be done in two ways:

1st. Join the class yourself and continue the work already begun.

2nd. Solicit new members.

There is no more valuable method of securing men than the personal enrollment in previous years. But remember that you won't do the latter unless you have made up your mind to carry out the former. Every indication points to a successful year; successful in the sense of securing a large enrollment, and, what is more important still, in the quality of the work to be done.

There is no need of an explanation why every man should make Bible study a part of his life. We are made to be better men and that simply and undeniably is reason enough. Now is the time to plan to enter one of the twelve classes. They will be conducted by the institute. Classes have been arranged to meet the needs of all men. "The Life of Jesus Christ" will be taught by Thomas H. Jones, who is especially fitted, as he made a tour of the Holy lands this year. Some time he will give the geography of that country. "Great Men of the Bible" will be taught by Rev. George Ford. This class is only open to men who are members of the gymnasium. Mr. Ford is a great favorite with the men and his popularity means the success of his class. "The sketch" class will be taught by E. H. Orchard. The purpose is to give, in a few lessons, a general knowledge of the Bible; to open the eyes of the students to the wonderful lessons therein contained. "What Did Jesus Christ Teach?" will be taught by L. H. Kibby. In the midst of so many sermons about Christ and His sayings, there is danger of getting away from what He actually did say. To consider what He did say with reference to Himself and His disciples is the chief purpose of this course. "Personal Workers" will be taught by Frank Eberhart. No time in the history of the association has there been such a great demand for men to understand intelligently the religious work by talking truth to men as individuals. The purpose of this course is to combine a study of the Word with emphasis upon the duty and opportunity to live to help men to God and His Son Jesus Christ.

Christ. Shop teachers' class will be taught by Dr. L. Hudson. This class will be open to teachers of the various shop classes and those who are desirous of learning how to teach these classes. It will hold weekly meetings on Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock. The purpose of the class is to extend uniformity throughout all the shop classes. The Lima Business College class will be taught by C. H. Church. Simple, elementary outline of the New Testament, designed especially for young men and ladies. The direct object of this course will be to meet the needs and give opportunities to those who desire a better knowledge of the Bible. "Important Decisions" will be taught by Rev. W. M. Curry. This course will consist of twenty-six important decisions as recorded in the scriptures; the time, place and circumstances of the story; the character and the conditions of the men.

Already a large number of men have enrolled for this class. Mission study class teacher, A. O. Becker, recently a missionary to India. This class will study "Dawn on the Hills of Tlang." This book describes the land, people and religion of China and gives an interesting account of the missionary operation in the empire. It will meet on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

"The Morning Watch." Too much cannot be laid upon the importance of the Morning Watch. It is the setting aside of a few minutes each morning for meditation, prayer and Bible study. Such a plan is being followed by scores of young men in the association who are now observing the Morning Watch.

If you are interested, a sample copy of the outline can be secured from the general secretary of the association.

RECEPTION

Tendered Rev. Newhouse Who Comes to Lima.

The members and friends of the East Sycamore street Christian church at Columbus Grove tendered their retiring pastor, Rev. S. S. Newhouse, and wife, a delightful farewell reception on Tuesday evening, prior to their removal to Lima, where he becomes pastor of the First Christian church. There was a musical and literary program, at which the ministers of the city churches made addresses and spoke of the good work done by Rev. Mr. Newhouse. He was presented with a purse of considerable money, as a token of appreciation. It is with sincere regret that the removal of these good people to Lima is learned by the Columbus Grove congregation, who are now without a pastor. Rev. and Mrs. Newhouse will arrive in Lima in a few days.

A CASTAWAY ...WOMAN

(Copyright 1904 by T. C. McQuinn.)
A down of us from the whale ship Polly made a landing on Lighthouse Island, on the northwest coast of Australia, one morning for wood and water, and for fear we might meet with adventure four of the men were armed with revolvers. As we landed on the sandy beach of a little cove we saw a small and queerly constructed raft drawn up on the sands, and leading away from it were the tracks of human feet. It needed only a glance to show that they were the footprints of a woman, and as we noticed the construction of the raft the oldest sailor could agree that no man ever put it together.
We went out in that there was a woman on the island and that she was there alone and alone. There was a well-behaved, the leading from the shore to the water, and as we were in search of water a part of us took this path, while the others remained behind to feel trees. At about twenty rods from the beach the man who had taken the path came upon a spring, from which we could not get water, and for several hours or more the captain came ashore, none penetrated farther. After dinner a man was detailed to beat up the woods and see if the woman could be found.
A few rods from the spring, where the forest was more open, we came upon a hut with a smoking fire at the door. The hut was made of sticks, stones, shells and mud, and again a woman's handwork was clearly shown. In the interior was a bed of dry grass and some ragged and faded garments of woman's wear.
As our stay on the island would be for three or four days, the captain ordered that building and provisions be placed in the hut for the use of the castaway, and that we should make no hunt for her just then for fear of alarming her. A letter was written and placed with the things, giving her the name of the ship and saying we were friends and then we went about our own work.
Next morning it was ascertained that the woman had spent the night in the hut. She had made a bed of the sticks and other of the provisions, but she had torn the letter into many pieces, and that probably without reading it. We left another letter for her, but it met the fate of the first. On the fourth day, as we had finished our work and the castaway had not come near us it was determined to run her down and discover who she was.
To make a speedy and thorough job of this everybody but the cook was landed, and we had about forty-five men a line. We stretched our across the head of the island like so many skinkers and then swept down its length and back again. In returning we sighted the woman who had been concealed in a crevice, and breaking over she ran like a deer and was soon out of sight.
We had spent half an hour looking for her when the one man left aboard the ship fired a musket and ran the boat and caused us to hasten down to the beach. The castaway had flunked us and reached the shore and put off in one of our boats. She was already half a mile away, using an oar as a paddle, and as soon as she saw us in pursuit she redoubled her exertions.
A boat was manned and sent off in pursuit, but we easily overhauled the fugitive, but as we came up she sprang overboard and swam away, and by diving and dodging she evaded us for half an hour.
Nobody could make out just what sort of woman she was until one of the men finally caught her by the hair and pulled her into the boat. She fought him with savage ferocity, but one of his fingers to the bone, and we had to be her hand and foot to keep her. She appeared to be about forty years of age and although her face was roughened and browned by exposure, we felt sure that she was English or American.
We took her aboard the ship, and the captain talked to her in a gentle way and tried to satisfy her that we were friends. When she grew quiet he cut off her bonds.
As we did not intend to make port for three months, the idea was to transfer the woman to some other craft. We spoke half a dozen in succession, but not one of them would receive her. From one, however, where the captain had his wife aboard, an outfit was procured, and no sooner was it handed over to the castaway than a great change took place in her. She quivered down, dressed herself from head to foot and spent a whole day in brushing and combing her hair.
One morning she elected the steward by saying she would eat breakfast in the cabin, these being the first words she had spoken since her capture. When she emerged from her stateroom nobody could have recognized her. She was now a fairly good looking woman, mild eyed and shy, and her voice was low and gentle. As she entered the cabin she looked about her in a wondering way and queried of the captain.
"Can you please tell me how I came aboard of this ship and what has become of my own wardrobe?"
When it was explained to her that she had been taken from Lighthouse Island, where she had been living as a castaway for months or years, her astonishment was beyond utterance.
Two weeks after she came aboard of us she was transferred to a steamer bound for Liverpool, and we went on our way with a purse of over $100 and a handshake from everybody. I heard of her in London after she had reached England, but memory had not returned and she was still a stranger even to herself.
M. QUAD.

She was tall, with wavy brown hair and deep brown eyes, just like a "creature in a net," he was understood and impressed, but impressionable and impressionable. They lived at the same boarding house for a time. With her he was sentimental, tender, earnest, also inclined to be rash and extravagant with his small earnings in bringing gifts of candy and the like. It is whispered that in a moment of recklessness he bought her two ice cream sodas in succession. But this could never be verified. Circumstances over which she had no control caused her to leave the boarding house without bidding him goodbye. Carelessly, too, she neglected to leave her address. He applied to the boarding house mistress in great distress of soul.
"Do you know," he asked, "where Miss Jones has gone?"
"Now, look here, Mr. Blank," said the kindly woman, "let me advise you not to worry too much about Miss Jones. She's engaged. Didn't you see that ring?"
"Engaged?" he gasped, looking toward the mantel and blindly grabbing at a bunch of candles for support.
"Engaged, did you say? And, great heavens, she let me buy her peanut brittle!"—Brooklyn Eagle.
Said Lake's Water.
"When once you understand the art of bathing in the great Salt Lake of Utah it is the finest diversion on earth, but it is not apt to result pleasantly to the man who does not heed the advice of the experienced," said a citizen of Salt Lake City. "Any other bathing resort in the world the swimmer can play in the waves, dive and sport himself as he pleases, but not so in this wonderful sheet of water in the west and all on account of its extraordinary saline qualities. So heavily is it charged with brine that unless the bather protects his eyes, nose and ears from liquid contact he will receive such stinging punishment as will make him bitterly regret having entered the water. To get even a little of it in the mouth is cause for grief. But when he knows enough to protect himself in sensitive places he will admit that nowhere in the world is the bathing so fine or so stimulating in its effects."—Washington Post.
The English Flag.
For over two years the red cross on a white field has been the emblem of England, and when in fullness of time the emblems of the neighboring Kingdoms of Scotland and Ireland were joined with it the union flag came into being. But for nearly 240 years the union flag bore upon it two crosses, only the red cross of England and the white cross of Scotland, "according to a fable made by our heralds," as King James said in his proclamation. The white saltire of Scotland was simply surmounted by the red cross of England, but this latter had to be "rimmed with" bordered—that is, with a narrow white edge, owing to the subtle hereditary color that color cannot be placed upon color nor metal upon metal.
A Blow Out Candle.
The only reason it seems that we don't die when we are in a room where a candle is blown out is that we don't get enough of the deadly composition that is eliminated from the burning wick, of which carbonized hydrogen, carbon oxide and acrolein are some of the component parts. A medical journal tells of a company of jokers who tried a piousness on a boy sleeping in one corner of their room. They held to the boy's nose the smoke of a blown out candle. In a little while the boy fell into short breathing, trembling and cramps and died in three days.
The Stomach's Lining.
How are children so often ill without injury to swallow such sharp things as pins, needles, tacks and bits of glass? The secret as disclosed by a dentist of Vienna lies in the fact that, when a pointed or sharp edged body comes into contact with the lining of the stomach or intestine, the part touched contracts and puckers so as to thicken itself in that place. At the same time it withdraws itself in such a manner as to form a little pocket and gradually twists the object around so as to turn the edge or point away, pushing the thing along.
Proper Beginnings.
Aseum—I hear your son is going in for a literary career? Mrs. Dreamer—Yes. He started in this very morning. Aseum—Indeed? What has he done? Mrs. Dreamer—He's sat for his photograph in two poses, one where he's reading a book and another with his brow resting on his hand.—Philadelphia Press.
Forgetful.
Jones—What have you got that string around your finger for? Brown—My wife put it on so that I would remember something. I forgot what it was. I'm keeping it on now to remind me to ask her what it was when I get home this evening.—Boston Transcript.
Early Rising.
"To be forced to get up early," says a physician "aggravates the soul, curdles the blood, swells the spleen, destroys all good intentions and disturbs all day the mental activities. Criminals are always recruited from the early rising class."—London Chronicle.
A Merger.
"Colonel never resigned did he?"
"No, he just merged into the office, and to this day they can't tell the difference 'twixt him and the weather boardin'."—Atlanta Constitution.
Words are like men's counters—they do not reckon by them. But they are the money of fools.—Hobbes.

READY
be met at the Erie station by the various committees and all of the bands in the city at that hour. The visitors arriving on this train will be escorted to the Lima Hotel and Hotel Norval and the bands will then disperse for dinner.
At 1:30 o'clock the bands and visiting delegations, reception and other committees and all democrats and other citizens who desire will assemble at the Lima House, where line of parade will be formed under the direction of Major F. M. Bell and band director, Richards and a short line of march will be executed before the speaking begins.
Press headquarters will be established at the Lima Club and all visiting newspaper men will be entertained there by the members of the local press.
The committees on decorations began their work this morning and in this work they should be assisted by all loyal citizens. Give the city a gala attire and assist the committees in an earnest effort to create a favorable impression of the city in the minds of all of the visitors who will be here.
The weather report for tomorrow assures the committee that fair weather will be had and the speaking will be done from a big platform which is being constructed at the northwest corner of the public square. The platform will be large enough to accommodate about three hundred persons. Tickets will be issued by the committee for a sufficient number of persons to fill the platform comfortably, including the Democratic Glee Club from Columbus, one band, the speakers, members of the press, members of the speakers' reception committee and others. Mr. John Maher and Sheriff E. J. Barr have been appointed sergeants at arms and they will see to it that the platform is not over crowded.
Although it is not intended to hold a night meeting at the close of the big democratic state opening tomorrow, visitors from along the line of the L. E. & W. will not have to make a grand rush to get back to their homes on the early evening trains. Arrangements having been made for a special train west and one east over the Lake Erie, which will leave Lima at 11 o'clock.
The editor of the Republican-Gazette paid little heed to the truth in his weak efforts to defend his unenviable position in the school board affair. He says, today, that because Chairman Shappell, of the democratic committee appointed to meet with the republican committee and hear the latter's proposition to have a non-partisan school board, did not commit himself, no proposition was made and no agreement to have a non-partisan board was entered into. Mr. Shappell did not either accept or reject the proposition, made by Downing and Evans, of the republican committee. He was not the whole city and county committee, as in the case of Quail. He simply did the duty that was assigned to him by the democratic city central committee. He heard the proposition of the republican committee—to have a non-partisan board—and then reported the proposition to the democratic committee and recommended its acceptance. The democratic city committee held a meeting the same evening that the proposition was made, and by a unanimous vote the proposition was accepted. Chairman Downing of the republican committee was notified of the acceptance of the proposition and then the agent for Ginn & Co. arrived in the republican camp, and the next move made by Quail & Downing was the repudiation of the agreement.

THE TYPICAL CHICAGO GIRL.

Certain rude persons, who sadly lack the gallantry characteristics of Chicago men in general, says that the young woman selected to represent this city on Oklahoma day at the fair in St. Louis falls somewhat short of being another Venus. Though they have nothing to go by but newspaper reproductions of her photographs, they assume to judge of her charms with finality. They assert that she is not more beautiful than a red wagon or the "I Will" creature. This is not true, we are certain. But, if it were true, what of it? The mayor was not asked to select the most beautiful woman in Chicago. He was asked to select a "typical Chicago girl".
Now it is said that the successful candidate is good, attractive, intelligent, clever, well educated, amiable, honest, capable, self-reliant, independent and trust-worthy. If she does not possess the highest feminine physical beauty, she has the more enduring beauty of mind and heart and character. She is doing her duty in the state of life in which heaven has placed her, making the best of herself, and striving to deliver, develop and improve the soul with which she has been entrusted, when it shall be demanded of her.
This is the typical Chicago girl. God bless her! Let others, if they will, prefer the accomplished Parisienne, the seductive Spanish of Seville, the sleek beauty of the Caucasus, the ox-eyed, languorous charmer of Egypt, the fascinating temptress of Budapest or Vienna, the supple, laughing beauties of Japan. Their charms are great, but they are also swift to fade; and then, how barren one is!
Give us the typical Chicago girl, with a smudge on her nose and a powder tag in the usual place, ink on her fingers, a pearl stuck through the ear in her hair and—brains in her head.—Chicago Journal.
EXPLAINED HIS IGNORANCE.
A S. I. Shields was rebuffed the other day by a witness whom he was cross-examining. He was counsel for the contestants in a will case who were endeavoring to show that he testator was of unsound mind. One of the dead man's intimate friends was summoned to testify for the plaintiff. It was he who was being examined by Mr. Shields.
"Did not the old man talk to himself when he was alone?" interrogated the lawyer.
"I do not know," replied the witness.
"What?" exclaimed the attorney. "You do not know, and yet you claim to be an intimate friend of his. How can you explain your ignorance of the fact that the deceased talked to himself when he was alone?"
"Because," replied the man, undisturbed, "I was never with him when he was alone."—Philadelphia Ledger.
Unlucky Thirteen.
A gentleman who had been dining at a restaurant, and who often ordered a dozen oysters, counted them one day, and found but eleven.
Still another day he counted them, with the same result. Then he said to the waiter:
"Why do you only give me eleven oysters when I order a dozen?"
"Oh, sir," answered the waiter, "I didn't think you'd want to be sittin' thirteen at table, sir."—Spokane Post.
Impertinence.
"Why, I gave you a piece of cake yesterday," said the young housekeeper.
"Yes, ma'am," replied Wary Willie, "but I want another chunk to settle a bet."
"Yes, ma'am," I told me partner the other day it was cake, but he says it's a chunk of concrete."—Philadelphia Ledger.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.
First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.
That such is the case has been conclusively proved by scientific research. Prof. T. H. Nelson, European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowing out of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and in time, falls out. This can be prevented.
Newcomb's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.
Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus With One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler, of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some soup, and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the drugist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by all druggists.

USE OF PERSONAL PRONOUN

Why the Uneducated Appear Always to Be Talking of Self.

All the uneducated appear almost always to be talking about themselves, but it is easy for a superficial observer to exaggerate the extent to which this is the case. For instance, if you discuss with a cultivated man a question of morals or the wisdom or rectitude of any particular line of conduct, he will tell you what he thinks right or what he thinks wrong or what strikes him as wise or foolish, with very little use of the personal pronoun. He can see the situation from the outside. But if you discuss it with an uneducated man he is incapable of this detached attitude of mind. The uneducated man can only picture the circumstances to himself by picturing himself in the midst of them. What he thinks right and wise is no doubt, often a great deal better and wiser than what he would actually have done. "Such and such a thing was wrong; I should not have done it," he says, or "Such and such was foolish. Now, had it been me, I should have done so and so." To the sophisticated listener he gives an impression of appalling self righteousness, and even perhaps of hypocrisy, but the impression is a mistaken one. He argues in the vocative case, because it is the one in which he can most easily express himself.

Some people, it must be admitted, at least confidences from those who have no weakness for making them. We are not alluding to those persons who by a method of deft cross questioning manage to abstract information with which they have no business. Such information is not confided by its original owner, but stolen from him, or at least wormed out of him. The people we mean have that in their face and bearing which makes all the world at home with them. Whoever meets them may know that they are unrepentant of giving a snub or a rebuff to any one who claims their sympathy, but he never so silly. They go about the world unarmed and unafraid and, to give human nature its due, unharmed. Unconsciously, it is they who make the first confidence, telling those who see them, even for the first time, that they are sympathetic and detached, and as shrewd as they are harmless.—London Spectator.

Strange Fate of an English Earl.

"I came across a bit of measure the other day," writes a Washington author who is down on Cape Cod "it is the log book of the schooner Hera, which sailed from Boston on a day in the seventies. She sailed with a new first mate on board.

"He seemed an ambitious man and he understood navigation. The captain suspected him of a desire to be master of a vessel himself some day but there was little about him to suggest that he was anything but a sailor. The third day out he was caught by the down haul of the mizen and went overboard. His body was never recovered. When the Hera came back from her voyage she was met by two Englishmen. They had crossed the water posthaste to find that first mate Somebody had died in England and well the man who was lost off that Yankee schooner was the Earl of Aberdeen.—Washington Post.

Bore on Too Heavy.

"This won't go for only one stamp, said the village postmaster to old Uncle Kish as the latter handed him a bulky and much sealed package. "What for? What's de maddah wid dat?" "Too heavy," replied the postmaster balancing it on his hand. "I mph! I told dat boy so when he was a whittin' of it. I told him he was er in too heavy a han, but he kept on a bargin down an' a bargin down on de pen, lehk a load o' hay. I'll take it back, sah an' mek him write wid a pencil. I ain't gwine spon no no 2 centises jes for his piched-de-luss."

An Odd Record.

The late Miss Julia Moore, Sir John Moore's niece, like many very old people, was extremely proud of her age and lost no opportunity of showing it. When she was asked by a friend if she was going to see the coronation of King Edward VII. she answered: "No, I have been out of London for the last three coronations, and I don't care to alter my record." What an evaluation one must feel at being able to say a thing like that!

Strength.

"Some scientist has declared that there is as much strength in three eggs as there is in a pound of beefsteak," said the observer.

"Well," replied the actor, "I met an egg once that would have eliminated the other two eggs from that proposition."—Exchange.

Praying For the Sister.

Mrs. Bitter—I just hate that woman I hope she'll lose all her money, get some disgusting illness, be run down by a train. Rev. Goodhart—Sister, sister! We are told to pray for our enemies. Mrs. Bitter—Well, I'm praying for all those things for her.—Philadelphia Press.

Not the Landlord's Fault.

A traveling man found a hair in his order of honey at a Muscatoh hotel and complained to the landlord about it. "I can't help it," the landlord replied. "I bought it for combed honey."—Kansas City Star.

"Did Jones have appendicitis?" "The doctors disagreed. Some thought he had money and some thought he hadn't."—Puck.

Transportation Director:

Sergeants at Arms:

All of the above committees are requested to meet at the democratic headquarters in the Wheeler hall, at 8 o'clock this evening, to complete all arrangements for the day's program.

The police department of the city will prevent the hitching of horses or vehicles on the public square during the day in order that the square will be cleared to permit the people to assemble there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and hear the speakers.

Arrangements are now almost fully completed for the opening of the democratic state campaign in Ohio with a big meeting in this city tomorrow and if the good weather of the past few days continues the city will have thousands of visitors to entertain during the day and evening.

It is now definitely known that the speakers of the day will be Hon. Chas. Towne of New York, former United States Senator from Minnesota; Hon. James Kilbourne, of Columbus, who will be chairman of the meeting; Hon. A. P. Sandies, of Ottawa, democratic candidate for secretary of state, and Hon. Duncan McGregor, of Pittsburgh, an orator of national reputation, who has done much campaigning for the democratic cause throughout the East during the past few years. The speakers are all orators of the greatest ability and the voters who will hear them will hear an honest and intelligent and able discussion of the political issues that are now before the people of the nation.

Some of the details of the day's program will probably not be arranged before the arrival of Chairman Harvey C. Garber, of the state executive committee but the accompanying program is sufficient to inform the public of the essential features of the opening event.

The forenoon will be devoted to the reception of the visiting delegations and speakers. The Eagle band, of this city, will have the honor of being the official escort organization of the day and it will be the first organization to assemble. This band will report at the headquarters in the Wheeler hall ready for duty at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, and will receive and entertain the visiting delegations throughout the morning.

The Spencerville delegation, accompanied by band, will arrive over the C. & E. road at 8:21 o'clock in the morning and will be met at the depot by members of the band committee and reception committee. The delegation from both east and west on the Pennsylvania road and from the north on the C. H. & D. and the east on the L. E. & W., and from the north on the C. & L. M. road will arrive between the hours of 8:30 o'clock and 10 o'clock and will be met by the Eagle band and members of the band and reception committees.

The Shelby county and other delegations from the south, accompanied by the Reed band of Sidney, will arrive over the C. H. & D. at 11:57 o'clock, and the delegations and bands from the west along the line of the L. E. & W. will arrive over that road at 12:50 o'clock and will be met by committees. Many other delegations from the south and southwest will arrive on various cars over the Western Ohio during the forenoon and early afternoon.

Chairman Kilbourne, members of the state executive committee, the Columbus Glee club, of seventy-five members and the other delegations from Columbus, Marion and other points east and south will arrive over the C. & E. at 11:35 o'clock and will

ROCKPORT

Dispensed Gracious Hospitality to Presbyterians.

Lima Voted In Favor of Retaining Colored Presbyterians In Same Presbytery.

The Lima Presbytery, which just closed its fall session in the Rockport Presbyterian church, was well attended, and the little town dispensed gracious hospitality. Rev. W. M. Curry, of Lima, the retiring moderator, delivered the opening sermon, after which his labors were concluded and Rev. Mr. Barber, of St. Marys, was elected moderator for the next six months. Rev. Marshall Harrington, of Rockport, is secretary. In the matter of admitting the Cumberland Presbyterians into the regular Presbytery, Lima Presbytery decided in favor of all being together. This is a church of white Presbyterians, located mostly in southern cities, but the action of the General Presbytery must be had before they can be admitted. Each Presbytery voices their opinion and the result of this vote will be sent to the General Presbytery, who will render their decision accordingly. Rev. Howley, pastor of the largest colored Presbyterian church of Macon, Georgia, was present in the interest of allowing the colored Presbyterians a separate Presbytery. Rev. Howley is an eloquent colored divine and stated that while Presbyterians ought always to be allied, yet on account of their color, they would feel more privileged to be in a Presbytery of their own. He said it was the tendency to keep down the colored ministers when they were together and push forward the eloquent white brethren. For this reason he urged a separate Presbytery, where the colored people might be on an equal footing, and the white people in their class. Lima Presbytery, however, voted against such action, and their report will go to the General Presbytery as being in favor of retaining the colored Presbyterians in the same Presbytery with the whites. The Presbytery adopted resolutions, discouraging the ordination of ministers who have not a college education. Rev. Thomas Elcox, over 90 years of age, came from Van Wert, to attend the meetings. Nearly every church in the Presbytery was represented.
